S3 Table. Characteristics of ongoing trials

Study	Status	Date of registration	Design	Participants	Intervention	Comparator	Main outcomes	Funding
PACTR201909775190644 "A randomized controlled trial of two methods of oxytocin infusion administration in prevention of blood loss at caesarean section".	Completed, no results available	05 September 2019	RCT, double-blind	● 20-40 years ● singleton pregnancy ● >37 weeks ● ASA 1 or 2 ● n = 230	30 IU in 500 mL of 0.9% saline commenced just before incision on the uterus and infused at 125 ml/h	30 IU in 500 mL of 0.9% saline after umbilical cord clamping and infused at 125 ml/h	● Blood loss during CS ● Post-operative blood loss ● Difference in pre- and post-operative packed cell volume/ hemoglobin concentration ● Need for additional uterotonics ● Need for blood transfusion ● Need for additional surgical procedures	none

CS: Cesarean section, RCT: randomized controlled trial